Life today is weird. Imagine roads and highways being empty. Or grocery stores shelves not full at all. And people wearing masks EVERYWHERE! Well that's what life is like right now.

School being canceled was VERY sad, especially as a 5th grader. What if you did not get to say good bye to your friends that are going to a different middle school? What if, you did not get to say good bye to the teacher's that you have had for all these years? Well again that is how it is.

I feel VERY lucky to have had my 11th birthday party. Most of my other friends and not family did not get to have their birthday party.

At home I do not get to go and race or even watch swim meets. But we do get to, grow plants and food in our green house, go for walks up and down our street, (with me riding my mongoose scooter) and we get to spend a lot of time together.
